ARTIFICIAL TEETH PERFECTED!—T. J. & H. J. CHANDLER have purchased the exclusive right of Beaver county to use Dr. Stuck's Patent by which they can put in Vulcanite as thin as Gold Plate, with a beautiful enameled pollish; and so light and elastic as to perfectly adapt itself to the mouth; obviating all that clumsy and bulky condition, so much complained of heretofore; and lessening the liability to break 100 per cent. Indeed, no one seeing, it would be willing to wear the old style plate any longer than they could conveniently get them exchanged. All branches of Dentistry performed to the best and most substantial manner. In filling teeth with gold, etc., we challenge competition from any quarter, and can refer to living subjects whose fillings have stood between thirty and forty years. Among the number Hon. John Allison will exhibit fillings we inserted some 35 years ago; the teeth as perfect as the day they were filled. Laughing Gas prepared on a new plan, freeing it from all unpleasant and dangerous effects, making the extraction of teeth a source of pleasure rather than of horror and pain. Prices as low as any good dentist in the State. Office at Beaver Station, Rochester Pa.

A LECTURE TO YOUNG MEN, Just Published in a Sealed Envelope. Price, 6cts.

A Lecture on the nature, treatment and radical cure of Spermatorrhœa, or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Emissions, Sexual Debility and Impediments to Marriage generally; Nervousness, Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, resulting from Self Abuse, &c. by ROBERT J. CULVERWELL, M. D., author of the "Green Book," &c.

The world renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of Self Abuse may be effectually removed without medicines, and without dangerous surgical operations, bougies, instruments, rings or cordials, pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically. This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.

Sent, under seal, to any address, in a plain sealed envelope, on the receipt of six cents or two postage stamps. Also, Dr. Culverwell's "Marriage Guide," price 25 cents. Address the Publishers, CHAS. J. C. KLINE & CO., 127 Bowery, New York, P. O. Box, 4,586. apr3-1y:chdy5.

ONE MILLION OF LIVES SAVED.

It is one of the remarkable facts of this remarkable age, not merely that so many persons are the victims of dyspepsia or indigestion, but its willing victims. Now, we would not be understood to say that any one regards dyspepsia with favor, or feels disposed to rank it among the luxuries of life. Far from it. Those who have experienced its torments would scout such an idea. All dread it, and would gladly dispense with its unpleasant familiarities. Mark Tapley, who was jolly under all the trying circumstances in which he was placed, never had an attack of dyspepsia, or his jolity would have speedily forsaken him. Men and women sometimes suffer its tortures uncomplainingly, but whoever heard of a person who enjoyed them?

Of all the multifarious diseases to which the human system is liable, there is perhaps no one so generally prevalent as dyspepsia. There are diseases more acute and painful, and which more frequently prove fatal; but none, the effects of which are so depressing to the mind and so positively distressing to the body. If there is a wretched being in the world it is

A CONFIRMED DYSPEPTIC.

But it is not our intention to discant on the horrors of Dyspepsia. To describe them truthfully is simply an impossibility, but it is not possible to point out a remedy. We have said that dyspepsia is perhaps the most universal of human diseases. This is emphatically the case in the United States. Whether this general prevalence is due to the character of the food, the method of its preparation, or the hasty manner in which it is usually swallowed, is not our province to explain. The great fact with which we are called to deal is this:

DYSPEPSIA PREVAILS

Nearly every other person you meet is a victim, an apparently willing one; for were it left to the choice by so many sufferers, when is certain, sure and safe remedy is within the easy reach of all who desire to avail themselves of it? But the majority will not. Blinded by prejudice, or deterred by some other unexplained influence, they refuse to accept the relief proffered them. They turn a deaf ear to the testimony of the thousands whose sufferings have been alleviated, and with strange infatuation, appear to cling with desperate determination to their ruthless tormentor. But says a dyspeptic: What is this remedy? to which we reply. This great alleviator of human suffering is almost as widely known as the English language. It has allayed the agonies of thousands, and is to-day carrying comfort and encouragement to thousands of others. The acknowledged panacea is none other than

DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

Would you know more of the merits of this wonderful medicine than be can learned from the experience of others? Try it yourself, and when it has failed to fulfil the assurance of its efficacy given by the proprietor, than abandon faith in it.

LET IT BE REMEMBERED,

first of all, that HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS is not a rum beverage.

They are not alcoholic in the sense of the term. They are composed wholly of the pure juice or vital principle of roots. This is not a mere assertion. The extracts from which they are compounded are prepared by one of the ablest of German chemists. Unlike any other Bitters in the market, they are wholly free from spirituous ingredients. The objections which hold with so much force against preparations of this class, namely—that a desire of intoxicating drinks is stimulated by their use, are not valid in the case of the German Bitters. So far from encouraging or inculcating a taste or desire for inebriating beverages, it may be confidentially asserted that there tendency is in a diametrically opposite direction. Their effects can be

BENEFICIAL ONLY

In all cases of biliary system. Hoofland's German Bitters act specifically, acting on the stomach and vigorously upon the Liver; they remove its torpidity and cause healthful secretion of bile—thereby supplying the stomach with the most indispensable elements of sound digestion in proper proportions. They give tone to the stomach—stimulating its functions, and enabling it to perform its duties as nature designed it should do. They impart vigor and strength to the entire system, causing the patient to feel like another being—in fact giving him a new lease of life.

THEY PURIFY THE BLOOD,

cleansing the vital fluid of all hurtful impurities and supplanting them with the elements of genuine healthfulness. In a word, there is scarcely a disease in which they cannot be safely and beneficially employed; but in that most generally prevalent distressing and dreaded disease, Dyspepsia,

THEY STAND UNRIVALLED.

Now, there are certain classes of persons to whom extreme Bitters are not only unpalitable, but who find it impossible to take them without positive discomfort. For such has been specially prepared. It is intended for use where a slight alcoholic stimulent is required in connection with the well-known tonic properties of the German Bitters. This Tonic contains all the ingredients of the Bitters, but so flavored as to remove the extreme bitterness. This preparation is not only palatable, but combines in a modified form, all the virtues of the German Bitters. The solid extracts of some of Nature's choicest restoratives are held in solution by a spirituous agent of the purest quality. In cases of languor or excessive debility, where the system appears to have become exhausted of its energies,

HOOFLAND'S TONIC

acts with almost marvelous effect. It not only stimulates the flagging and wasting energies, but invigorates and permanently strengthens its action upon the Liver and Stomach thereugh, perhaps less promptly than the Bitters, when the same quantity is taken by none the less certain. Indigestion, Biliousness, Physical or Nervous Prostration, yield readily to its potent influence. It gives the invalid a new and stronger hold upon life, removes depression of spirits, and inspires cheerfulness. It supplants the pain of disease with the ease and comfort of perfect health. It gives strength to weakness, throws despondency to the winds, and starts the restored invalid upon a new and independence career. But Dr. Hoofland's benefactions to the human race are not confined to his celebrated or his invaluable Tonic. He has prepared another medicine, which is rapidly winning its way to popular favor because of its intrinsic merits. This is a perfect substitute for mercury, without any of mercury's evil influences.

GERMAN BITTERS,

These wonderful Pills, which are intended to act upon the Liver, are mainly composed of Podophyllin, or the VITAL PRINCIPLE OF THE MANDRAKE ROOT.

Now we desire the reader to distinctly understand that this extract of the Mandrake is many times more powerful than the Mandrake itself. It is the medicinal virtues of the Mandrake plant in a perfectly pure and highly concentrated form. Hence it is that two of the Podophyllin Pills contain a full dose, while anywhere six to eight or a handful of other preparations of the Mandrake are required. The Podophyllin stimulating its functions and causing it to make its biliary secretions in regular and proper quantities. The injurious results which invariably follow the use of mercury is entirely avoided by their use. But it must not be supposed that their powers are exerted. The extract of Mandrake contained in them is skillfully combined with four other extracts, one of which acts upon the stomach, one upon the upper bowels, one upon the lower bowels, and one prevents any griping effect, thus producing a pill that influences the entire digestive and alimentary system, in an equal and harmonious manner, and its action entirely free from nausea, vomiting or griping pains common to all other purgatives.

Possessing these much desirable qualities, the Podophyllin becomes invaluable as a FAMILY MEDICINE.

No household should be without them. They are perfectly safe, require but two for an ordinary dose, are prompt and efficient in action, and when used in connection with Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, or Tonic, may be regarded as certain specifics in all cases of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, or any of the disorders to which the system is ordinarily subject. The act upon the stomach and bowels, carrying off improper obstructions, while the Bitters or Tonic purify the blood, strengthen and invigorate the frame, give tone and appetite to the stomach, and thus build up the invalid anew.

Dr. Hoofland, having produced internal remedies, for diseases, has given the world one mainly for external application, in the wonderful preparation known as

DR. HOOFLAND'S GREEK OIL.

This Oil is a sovereign remedy for pains and aches of all kinds. Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Toothache, Chilblains, Sprains, Burns, Pain in the Back and Loins, Ringworms, &c., &c., all yield to its external application. The number of cures effected by it is astonishing, and they are increasing every day.

Taken internally, it is a cure for Heartburns, Kidney diseases, Sick-Headaches, Cholic, Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, Cramps, Pains in the Stomach, Colds, Asthma, &c.

The Greek Oil is composed entirely of healing gums and essential oils. The principal ingredient is an oily substance procured in the southern part of Greece. Its effects as a destroyer of pain are truly magical. Thousands have been benefited by its use, and a trial by those who are skeptical will thoroughly convince them of its inestimable value.

These remedies will be sent by express to any orders, upon application to its PRINCIPAL OFFICE, at the GERMAN MEDICINE STORE, No. 631, ARCH STREET, PHILADELPHIA.

SELECT MISCELLANY.

TILTON'S LIFE OF WOODHULL.

The most fearful and wonderful production of late days is Mr. Theodore Tilton's life of Victoria Woodhull. His enemies would like to have it regarded as an earnest and serious production; yet, not even his best friends can claim that the most strously absurd thing is intended as a burlesque. As a part of the bad news of the day we give these extracts:

I shall swiftly sketch the life of Victoria Claflin Woodhull; a young woman whose career has been as singular as any heroine's in a romance; whose ability is of a rare and whose character of the rarest type; whose personal sufferings are of themselves a whole drama of pathos; whose name (through the malice of some and the ignorance of others) has caught a shadow in strange contrast with the whiteness of her life; whose position as a representative of her sex in the greatest reform of modern times renders her an object of peculiar interest to her fellow-citizens; and whose character (inasmuch as I know her well) I can portray without color or tinge from any other partiality save that I hold her in uncommon respect.

In Homer, Ohio, in a small cottage, white-painted and high-peaked with a porch running round it and a flower garden in front, this daughter the seventh of ten children of Roxana and Buckman Claflin, was born Sept. 23, 1838. And this was the year when Queen Victoria was crowned, the nice, plain babe, though clad neither in purple nor fine linen, but comfortably swaddled in respectable poverty, was immediately baptized (though without chrism) as the Queen's namesake; her parents little dreaming that their daughter would one day aspire to a higher seat than the English throne. The Queen, with that early matronly predilection which her subsequent life did so much illustrate, foresaw that many glad mothers, who were to bring babies into the world during that coronation year, would name them after the chief lady of the earth; and accordingly she ordained a gift to all her little namesakes of Anno Domini, 1838. For County Treasurer,
(Democratic Nominee)
CHA'S. B. HURST, of Rochester, Pa.

THE returns of the primary elections in Massachusetts, for delegates to their Republican State Convention, have been received. Whole number of Delegates, 605. Majority against Benj. Butler for Governor, 167. The irrepressible Ben intimates that he shall run as an independent candidate.

GRANT'S administration has paid 251 millions of the National debt in two years and a half. This saves the people annually fifteen millions of dollars. The funding of the new loan so far as it has now gone makes an additional saving of two millions of dollars per annum. Seventeen millions of dollars saved yearly is too large an item to the people to be disregarded. Vote the Republican Ticket.

THE Department of Justice, at Washington, on Thursday last received a dispatch saying that, in the case of the eleven men tried under the Ku-Klux bill at Raleigh, for participating in an outrage, eight were convicted and three acquitted. The jury was almost entirely composed of white men. The prosecution of all under arrest will be vigorously carried forward by special counsel Lusk, appointed by the Attorney General.

DEMOCRACY in New Jersey threatens to split on the rock of the "new departure." At the convention week before last the president, in his opening address, stated "that the Democratic party had no new theories to advance; that it stands and abides by the principles of the old Democratic party." This sentiment, directly antagonistic to the progressive movement, was received with applause, and was apparently a reflex of the views of a majority of the delegates. The platform, however, is "new departure" to the core.

WHETHER the Women's Club of Washington city succeed or not in all they have undertaken in the work of reclaiming the fallen ones of their sex they have certainly roused the public attention and the public conscience on the subject as has never been done before. Woman have the motive and the zeal to make them efficient workers in this cause. The public meeting held in that city, on the 12th instant was largely attended, and unmistakably successful in the sympathy and confidence created for the effort, as illustrated not only by the applause, but by the more substantial evidence of large money contributions for its prosecution.

THE dissensions and disagreements of the Republican party of Louisiana have been referred to Gov. Claflin, of Massachusetts, as Chairman of the National Republican Committee. The complainants are especially irritated because the late Convention was convened in the Custom House, and allege that the federal officers there are in partnership with the Democracy. This reference will, it is hoped, reconcile the different factions and produce harmony in the Republican ranks of Louisiana. There ought not to have been any trouble in the party at New Orleans, nor would there have been, were it not put on foot by the officious intermeddling of the Democrats of that city.

POLYGAMISTS in Utah, it seems, are rejected as Jurors in the U. S. Circuit Court. On the 18th instant at Salt Lake city, the Hawkins adultery case was presented to the Grand Jury. The three prominent Mormons summoned—Messrs. Cannon of the Deseret News, Townsend of the Townsend House, and Clawson, a son-in-law of Brigham Young, declared, under oath, that they did not believe the man practicing polygamy guilty of adultery, and being challenged, Chief Justice McKean rejected them as jurors. The question to Cannon, "How he would decide in an issue, involving the tenet of polygamy as part of his religion vs. the laws of Congress," was answered, that it would be time enough to decide when the issue was presented.

WHAT Party is to blame for high taxes? One of our Democratic exchanges says: "The 'blessings' the poor man derives from Radicalism can be summed up by high taxes—taxes that rob him of his land and deprive his wife and little ones of the necessaries of life, &c. &c."

These words from such a source certainly come with rather bad grace, when it is a notorious fact, that every attempt made by the Republican members in Congress with a voice to reduce taxation in any form has been invariably met by Democratic members with stern opposition.

But in spite of this opposition, in spite of the vast legacy bestowed upon the Republican party in the way of the National debt—for which the Democratic party is directly responsible—besides paying off $250,000,000 of this Democratic public debt—a sum equal to more than one-eighth of our whole bonded obligations,—the Republican party has by its own strength stricken from the tax lists over 12,000 articles, thereby repealing direct taxes to the amount of $80,000,000.

If these taxes had not been repealed, the $80,000,000 of revenue thus lopped off, would have gone towards decreasing the Democratic public debt, but while the Republican party has labored honestly and faithfully towards reducing expenditures, as well also as diminishing the principal and interest of the public debt, it has not been unmindful of the interests of the poor; having proved itself to be their friend by reducing taxes upon almost every article that is not classed as a "luxury," and this too in face of the most bitter opposition by the Democratic members of Congress.

THE new irrepressible conflict, of the Orthodox Democracy and the New Departurists is growing more bitter every day in its hostility. Their antipathy for each other bids fair soon to excel their common hatred for the Republican party. The New York World, the chief organ of the one portion, and Mr. Alexander H. Stephens, the leader of the other, have fallen to abusing each other with a hearty good-will, which is quite unmistakable. The former twits the latter with his egotism in signing his initials to his editorial articles in the Atlanta Sun, and in a subsequent article ridicules him as "a suitable Don Quixote" in the following irreverent style:

"How enviable is that illusive predominance of the imagination which colors the most vulgar objects with the resplendent hues of poetry! To be sure, a barber in his leisure has but a faint resemblance to a knight's glittering helmet; but how supremely blest is the man whose transfiguring fancy converts the barber's basin into a helmet; a flock of sheep into a magnificent army; windmills into towering giants; the lean, gaunt Rosinante into a prancing, caparisoned steed; the vulgar rural Dulcinea into a model of every lady-like grace and accomplishment! We walk by the side of Mr. Stephens like a wondering, reverent Sancho Panza, puzzled by his unaccountable actics, yet admiring his character. With the too prosaic literalness of the unimaginative squire, we attend on our knight with great fidelity but many questionings. The Rosinante which Mr. Stephens is riding seems to us merely the spavined, well-eyed, draggle-tailed, skin-covered skeleton that would appear in a photograph unrelieved by an artist's flattering touches."

Mr. Stephens responds with the warmth of a genuine indignation, characterizing the chief editor of the World as a harlequin and "a grinning imp of exulting Radicalism" to which he accuses him of having sold out. "We do not believe 'says Mr. Stephens,' that he [the chief editor of the World,] intends to support any candidate, upon any Platform which does not indorse and sanction, as valid, the most infamous acts of 'usurpation, fraud and perfidy,' which have marked the history of the ruling Dynasty at Washington for the last five years. * * * * If Mr. Marble is not a disguised enemy in the Democratic camp, let him furnish some better evidence of his fidelity to their Cause and Candidates than is to be found in his 'antecedents.'

If his real object is not under the name of Democracy to Radicalize the country, let him answer our questions and satisfactorily explain why he did not answer at first. The dignity and a 'trifle impertinent' subscription will not do."

If this kind of warfare between the opposing factions of the Democracy continues, it will devolve on the Republican party to step in as a mediator to save them from the unhappy fate of the Kilkenny cats.

REPUBLICAN Victories are the order of the day; North Carolina, Maine, California, Wyoming,—from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the extreme North to the extreme South—victory has perched upon the Republican banner; and, all that is now wanting is for the middle States to fall into ranks, to make a complete triumph for the Republican party this fall. And, as if to cheer us on in the good work, Colorado Territory sends a cheering message along the wires, announcing that at her late election she has chosen a Legislature almost unanimously Republican, and has elected the Republican candidate for delegate to Congress by a largely increased majority over that of last year. Thus far the campaign has been most cheering. Shall Pennsylvania disappoint so favorable a political aspect? We think not. "On to Victory!" is the watchword.

AT the time the Rebellion broke upon the nation, the Democratic party encouraged the Southren States to arm and war against the Government. They also denounced Union soldiers as "hireling minions" of the Abolition party—warring to rob the Southern planters of their negro property. They refused the right of suffrage to soldiers of the army while battling for the Union. Ten years ago the New York Day-Book, a Democratic paper, declared: "God Almighty himself cannot abolish American Slavery," and Horatio Seymour Democratic Governor of New York, encouraged a mob to resist the conscription to raise troops to put down the rebellion. Now, that party professes to have supported the war, declare they accept the equality of races in all civil rights, and support the Constitution as amended! Can any same man place confidence in their professions? Are they—with such a record—to be trusted? Answer at the ballot-box on the 2d Tuesday of October next.

"PUSH things," was the final instruction given by Gen. Grant to Gen. Sheridan during the campaign in the Shenandoah. This should be the motto of the Republican party, from this until the October election; for, however much disheartened the Democrats may be from the results of the late elections, yet they are undoubtedly massing their forces for a desperate struggle this fall; and if trickery, falsehood and fraud can win, they will have no compunctions of conscience in resorting to them. Wallace is determined to carry a majority in the next Legislature; because, his future political hopes depend upon such a result, and he will leave no stone unturned to accomplish that end. He desires to go to the United States Senate from Pennsylvania; and will, if the Democrats carry the fall elections. Work, Republicans, work.

BEWARE of Roorbacks," is a stereotyped phrase just on the eve of elections. We have not thus far indulged in its use this campaign, nevertheless we feel like cautioning our readers against believing any stories they may hear from now until the election is over. Interested parties will put tales afloat concerning their opponents in such a way that they cannot be refuted nor traced back to their authors until they have accomplished the mischief intended. The right way to treat electioneering dodges of this kind, is to give them a wide berth, or at least give them no heed until you know who started them and for what purpose they are brought forth.

THE National Convention of colored people convened at St. Louis, on September 22. E. R. Williams, of Omaha called the Convention to order, and stated that the objects of the Convention were to determine on some particular day to be observed in commemoration of the emancipation of slavery and granting equal civil, and political rights to the colored men; to consider what is necessary to be done to educate the colored people, and to adopt a line of policy to be pursued in the political campaign of 1872. Prof. O. L. C. Hughes of St. Louis, was elected temporary chairman, and W. G. Robinson, of Indianapolis, Secretary. Delegates were present from Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Indiana, Arkansas, and Wisconsin.

HEBE AND THEBE.

—King George has returned to Athens, from his trip to Denmark and Germany. He will again leave the Kingdom for a couple of days, going to Brindisi, to meet his mother, the Queen of Denmark, who is about to visit Greece.

—An attempt has been made to assassinate the Chief Justice of India. Two stabs were inflicted upon him with a dagger by a native. The Chief Justice was seriously wounded and lies at his residence in a precarious state.

—The loss by the Virginia City fire is probably about $750,000; insurance $350,000. Four entire blocks in the center of the business part of the city were burned. The fire originated from a defective smoke stack in a planing mill. A high wind spread the flames rapidly. The efforts of the Fire Department were unavailing for a long time. Many were injured by falling walls or scorched. None were killed outright.

—The Cameron Herald says that Mr. Amos Raymond, of Raymond, Potter county, met with a queer accident a few days ago. It appears that he was at work on the upper floor of his barn, when he missed his footing and fell through to the floor below, striking square on his feet. As he struck the floor his head was thrown forward against his arms, which were extended upwards, with such force as to break both arms between the elbow and wrist.

—Barbers should frequently wash their hands. A stranger whose nose had been gripped for the eighth time by the offensive fingers of his tonsorial manager, Saturday evening blew the soap from his mouth and suddenly inquired, "Was the body identified?" "What body?" repeated the barber in surprise. "Why haven't you been on a coroner's jury?"

—The Tribune, referring to the action against the alleged plunderers of the Treasury, says, the arraignment of Tammany cannot be left to the ring, and that if the robbers of our city are to be brought to justice, and restitution made, it is not possible that those whose hands are unclean can be entrusted with this weighty service. It thinks there has been such rapid progress made in the last few weeks, that no further compromise or compositions with the enemy must be accepted.

—An eccentric, unmarried venerable gentleman in Newport, R. I., who has a tomb stone erected in readiness for his decease (late may he return to the skies) chanced to be in the cemetery the other day, when some of the ladies, strangers and inquisitive, inquired of him where to find the monument erected by the person who was not dead. He kindly pointed it out and listened to their comments, which were not very complimentary.

—All beauty is not monopolized by the Caucasian race. In Keokuk the other day, at the State fair, a baby-show was organized, and out of twelve competitors the bouncing ebony image of Mrs. Chloe Franklin a black woman, was unanimously awarded the prize as the handsomest infant in the group. A card was pinned on the victorious infant, stating that his parents were of the Kentucky stock owned at one time by Henry Clay.

—Once more we hear of that fine old veteran, the Rev. Peter Cartwright, Methodist minister for 63 years and a presiding elder for over 50 years. This gentleman celebrated his 87th birthday on the 1st instant, at Pleasant Plains, Sangamon county, Ill. Just think of the patriarch surrounded upon this touching occasion by 120 children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren—population enough for a small township. There was a pleasant reunion, and the octogenarian was not too old to make an interesting speech.

—An exchange gives a glowing description of the youthful feelings of A. T. Stewart the New York millionaire. Although he is seventy years of age, the finish and furnishment of his new palatial residence, indicate that he is anything else than an old man in his tastes and fancies. His bed for instance, which is of carved rosewood, inlaid with mosaic, has on its central panel a female figure bathed in the warm glow of a summer sunrise, and on the footboard is a figure of Cupid with his dart and quiver.

—Ex-Secretary Seward dined with M. Thiers in Paris on the 31st of last month. A Paris newspaper says that he was received by his host with great cordiality. Mr. Seward spoke only English, which M. Thiers does not understand; while M. Thiers spoke only French, which Mr. Seward does not understand; but this trifling impediment did not prevent the conversation from being quite animated. At dessert, Mr. Seward made a speech in English, to which M. Thiers replied in French, both greatly delighting their hearers.

—The Annual State Convention of Swedenborgians was held on Monday of last week, in the church of the New Jerusalem, Pittsburgh. There were in attendance about half a dozen delegates representing Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. The proceedings consisted principally of discussions on points of Church discipline and doctrine, together with the adoption of some new Church rules of no especial interest. The exercises were harmonious throughout. The Convention closed in the evening, and the delegates from Philadelphia have returned to their homes.

—There is a good deal of laughing in the newspapers about an exhilarated bridegroom in New Orleans who requested an artillery company to fire a salute in honor of his nuptials. We see nothing laughable about this. The man was in the seventh sphere of happiness, and he was not so shame-faced as to be unwilling that all the world should know it. Every willing and genuine husband, newly made so; feels like ordering the bells to be rung the artillery discharged, the windows illuminated, the bunting flung to the breeze, the brass bands to blow melodious and harmonious blasts; and if he does not command a general carnival at his own expense, it is either because he cannot afford it or for reasons of personal modesty.

APPALLING CALAMITY.

A Portion of Florida Engulfed, with Forests, Houses and People.

The following particulars of the appalling calamity which has happened to a portion of Florida, a brief account of which was published in yesterday's Mail, we find in the New York Herald:

Information has been received here from Palatka, Fla., to the effect that a large portion of the orange country has been changed into a lake, and that

HOUSES AND PEOPLE HAVE BEEN ENGULFED.

The gentleman furnishing the information states that while on his way from Orlando to Millionville, on horseback, he noticed that his horse commenced bogging, and as he proceeded from the sounds heard in the rear, he became alarmed. The bogging grew worse as he progressed, until he had to dismount. The sounds in his rear increased more and more, and became more and more alarming and the route in front more boggy. At last, after great exertions, both he and his horse reached solid ground. Turning to examine into the cause of those fearful sounds in his rear he saw the most

TERRIFIC AND APPALLING SIGHTS.

The first thing that attracted attention was that the trees were moving, first a gyratory motion of the top, then some sinking gradually out of sight, the tops revolving more and more rapidly as it sunk and disappeared, others following, and as they fell revolving and describing arcs of a circle against the sky. Then the whole earth, as far as the eye could reach, sinking and its place supplied by rushing, seething, boiling, with the noise of mighty cataracts, casting to the surface the roots, tops or bodies of pines and oak.

It is well know that a large portion of Florida is of comparatively recent formation; that it has for a basis coral and rotten rock; that many of the rivers and lakes have subterranean channels and outlets, and that there are many what are called "lime sinks." The late heavy and long continued rains, by which the earth has been thoroughly saturated and the subterranean channels swollen, are calculated to produce subterranean changes. It is not improbable that there is truth in the story. There is a rumor prevailent that Town Island is swallowed up, and the whole chain of lakes from Apopka to Lake Conway are now united and from an immense island sea. The people are flying terror stricken from the scene of the disaster.

TEMPEST OF STONES.

Remarkable Doings in Franklin County, Ohio.

The people in the vicinity of Harrodsburg, Franklin county, Ohio, are enjoying a decided sensation of the supernatural order. On the evening of the 6th a Mrs. Mundle, as the story goes, heard, as she supposed men talking near the house, and, her husband being absent, went out to the yard. In a few moments a block of wood was thrown into the house, and supposing some rowdies were trying to frighten her, she armed herself with a shot-gun, but saw no person to shoot at. Quite a number of stones were thrown into and around the house during the remainder of the evening, and on the next day the same thing occurred. The neighbors collected and witnessed the strange doings, but were unable to ascertain the cause. On the third day the stone throwing was renewed with double fury, the bombardment continuing all day and far into the night, and it was said that two hundred stones fell in one hour. On the fourth day the stone shower was renewed and continued until noon. It was noticed that the stones nearly all fell near a bound girl, sixteen years of age and small of stature. She was removed to different buildings, but stones continued to fall near her. Upon being taken away from the house, or place, the stones at once ceased to fall, but when brought back re-commenced falling immediately, continuing at intervals up to the latest accounts. Some of the stones were wet and nearly all cold, but some were dry and so hot that they could scarcely be handled. They alighted without force enough to hurt any person, though no one was hit save the girl. The correspondent who furnished the above particulars to the State Journal at Columbus, says "not the slightest clue has been obtained as to the cause of all this. That it all happened there is not the slightest shadow of a doubt, for it has been witnessed by men whose word I do not feel even disposed to doubt."

Vigorous War on the Mormons.

A dispatch from Salt Lake city says: "At the meeting of the Court on last Wednesday, very considerable time was taken up in empannelling the Grand Jury for the Third District. All polygamists and followers of Brigham Young have been excused from acting as jurors, and the Mormon Journals are very bitter on the United States law officers in consequence. Chief Justice McKean, in his charge to the jury, said:

You are summoned not to try criminal cases, but to say what criminal cases shall be presented for trial. In the discharge of this duty you will be governed by the same principles of law which govern grand juries in Maine and Montana, in Georgia and Arizona—principles of law everywhere applicable throughout the Republic. The crimes of murder, arson, larceny, bigamy, adultery and riot in Utah are the same crimes elsewhere throughout Christendom. If there is anything peculiar in the situation in Utah, it is the peculiar conduct of some men here, and not any peculiar principles or policy that are to be enforced here. Utah belongs to the United States, and the people of Utah like people of the rest of the country are amenable to the laws of the United States. Those who do not must answer at the bar of justice, and those men of influence who in practice defiantly trample upon the laws themselves, & by precept teach others to do so, should be the first to feel the firm grip of the law rather than the obscure men whom they have misled. Gentlemen, it is your duty and mine to enforce the laws. Let us do so without fear, favor, affection, prejudice, or the hope of reward.

Greenland.

The U. S. exploring steamer Polaris, Captain Hall, sailed from Discoe, Greenland August 15th, bound for the North Pole. The season so far is an open one, and interesting discoveries, of great importance to many branches of science, are expected.

Greenland, though so intensely cold, and apparently so cheerless, is full of interest to the naturalist, and by no means without profit for the merchant. The outskirting land supports a luxuriant growth of from 300 to 400 species of plants, some of which ascend to the hight of 4,000 feet; many species of seals, and whales and fish, sport in the waters, which are also occupied by invertebrate animals and sea weeds; every rock swarms with water fowl, while land birds from the south visit the country as a nesting place; countless herds of reindeer browse in some of its valleys; the bark of the fox is to be heard even in the depth of winter; and the polar bear may be seen all the year round. The Danes, at their first visit, found a human population there of 30,000; and within their own possessions there is at present a healthy, intelligent, civilized race of hunters of not less than 10,000 souls.

The west coast of Greenland is slowly sinking beneath the sea. The remains of native houses are in one locality seen beneath the sea.

The Hodge Case.

In reference to the Hodge defalcation, the Washington correspondent of Forney's Press writing under date of Sept. 19th says:

"It has been observed by recent visitors to the Paymaster General's office that the official bulletin board still reports Paymaster Hodge as on duty at Washington. Possibly the intelligence of his incarceration in Fort McHenry for defrauding the Government has not yet officially reached the bulletinist. Gen. Brice has received information as to the whereabouts of from twenty to thirty thousand dollars belonging to Major Hodge, which he has taken steps to attach, thus reducing the defalcation to the amount named by Hodge. A plan is now being matured in the Treasury by which disbursing officers' accounts, requisitions, and deposits will be kept under a more perfect checking system. This plan, when adopted, will, it is claimed, prevent a renewal of defalcations like this. Gen. Brice is to be retired at an early day. He is over sixty-seven years of age. His probable successor is Colonel Joseph H. Eaton, on duty here for several years, and the author of the Paymasters' Manual adopted by the War Department."

Heart Rending Accident.

The Pierce county (Wis.) Herald says: "A most distressing accident occurred at Prescott, on the 6th inst., at the wheat warehouse of M. Stone & Co. The foreman of the firm, W. H. Mason, had just commenced to load a barge; all the hands were at work in and around the barge with the exception of one, who was busily engaged in unloading wheat from the teams on the front side of the warehouse, when suddenly Mr. Mason heard a child scream, and he exclaimed to a man standing near, 'My God! Hathaway, a child is in the spout,' and, climbing up to a hatch, or scuttle, he saw the face and hand of a little boy just above the wheat. Precipitating himself through the window he shouted, 'Hathaway, shut the gate, and tell every man to bring his shovel quick as lightning, a child is going through the spout!' When the gate was shut the wheat began to roll down on the little fellow, and was covering him, when orders were given to open the gate to its fullest capacity, so as to try and keep the child from being smothered; Mason had caught a good hold of the child's rist and chin, and held him, and kept back the wheat from his mouth and nostrils, hoping that its feet would reach the floor and rest their while the wheat ran off, thinking that the aperture in the floor would not admit of his body going through; but alas! his feet went down into the spout, and he was drawn down, down to a certain death, in spite of the united strength of two men who held him until he was beyond help, the man Hathaway being up to his head in the vortex of wheat, and Mason to his waist, and a half dozen men shoveling for dear life. The news spread like wildfire. The warehouse was filled with an excited and horrified crowd, who watched with painful interest the effort to extricate the body of the poor child. It was a full half hour before one said, 'I feel him,' and in a few minutes more the limp and lifeless form of the boy was picked up, and Dr. Cotton, who was in attendance, made every effort to resuscitate him, but all in vain; his little mouth and throat were literally solid full of wheat."

A Perennial Stream of Gold.

There is no country under the sun which is so enormously enriched by its absent sons as Great Britain. A perfect stream of gold is forever flowing in upon that small island from all parts of the world. Not only are the thousands heaped up in India, China, America (North and South), and Australia brought back by those who have been fortunate in their career abroad to spend and bequeath in the country where alone they imagine they can enjoy all the good things of this world, but the humbler class, who are in their degree successful abroad, are continually remitting amounts which make a splendid aggregate. The returns of the Emigration Commissioners show that in the twenty-three years from 1848 to 1870 inclusive there has been sent home from North America, through banks and commercial houses, a sum upwards of £16,334,000. Of what has been sent home through private channels there is no account.

The Dead of the Late War.

Very soon nearly all the bodies of the Confederate dead from Georgia interred at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, will have been taken back to their native State and reburied. It appears that but fifty-four Georgians in all found their last resting-place at Gettysburg—at least no more were identified. The work has been accomplished since July, and the expense borne altogether by the people of Savannah. Other Southern States, including South Carolina, have acted in like manner. Cannot our Northern States learn something from this? Are there not hundreds—thousands of the bodies of Union soldiers beneath the soil of the South? Is it intended that they shall remain there? Have we, indeed, as a people, less respect for the great deeds of those who saved our country, than the old rebels have for those of the men who sought to destroy it?

—Four little Poughkeepsie boys recently took a dangerous railroad ride. An extra locomotive on the Hudson River Road had stopped there a few moments, and, supposing it a switch engine employed at the depot, they jumped on the rear of the tender. Three sat on the guard, only six inches wide, and the other got astride the bumper. Soon after the engine started it was running forty miles an hour. The boys were terribly shaken. They could not be seen from the engine; the dust and smoke concealed them from the flagmen they passed, and their cries were drowned by the noise. A man at Poughkeepsie suspected trouble, and the engine was stopped by telegraph at New Hamburg. The boy who was astride of the link was unable to walk when taken off, his legs being awfully chafed. The hands of the other boys were blistered terribly, and the blood oozed out from under their finger nails, so tightly had they grasped the wood-work of the tender. They were nearly exhausted, and a short distance more would have killed them.

—The New Orleans Republican says: We have been told of several families that packed all their household gods and goods ready to float away on the tidal wave when it comes. Indeed hundreds of persons were so frightened over the hoax that they almost forgot daily cares in the excitement of a big flood. Don McParis says he has his skiff and fishing tackle in readiness and is anxious for the great crevasse, anticipating a happy time in a big haul of fish, but then Don always was thoughtless when hooks and lines could be used. We can name three families summering at Biloxi whose feelings were so worked on that two weeks ago they actually gathered together all their worldly effects and returned home, unwilling to be drowned anywhere except in New Orleans. The head of one family related to us how his folks affected by the coming wave, had not only boxed furniture, but all at dressed waiting for the cars, and his presence to take them to a place of safety over fifty feet above the sea level.

PHILADELPHIA has a woman voter. A few days since Miss Carrie L. Burnham, accompanied by her legal adviser, went before the Board of Assessors of that city and demanded to be registered and assessed as a voter, claiming to be a citizen of the United States and therefore entitled to the privileges and immunities of citizenship. The canvassers objected on account of her sex, when her adviser read the law, explaining that citizenship was not confined to sex, that from the foundation of the Government women had been recognized as citizens, and that now, under the Constitution of the United States, with its amendments, they were justly entitled to the privileges of citizenship equally with man. Her name was then registered and a certificate of assessment given her. Next she paid her taxes, and having attained a receipt for the same, is therefore ready for voting.

—One vote was lost by the Democrats in California thus: With considerable trouble the voter deciphered a poster announcing that certain candidates would address the inhabitants of Gilroy and vicinity, and after a moment's deep meditation exclaimed: "Vicinity! What's vicinity? I've lived hyar-abouts nigh onto fifteen years, an' thar ain't no such place, an' any party what don't know the geography of the country better nor that can't get my vote.

Rev. Dr. Robert J. Breckenridge, the strongest man of all his famous family, is reported to be dying. During the war Dr. Breckenridge was a staunch Union man, and his firm stand did much to hold Kentucky. For some years he has not been as prominent ecclesiastically as of old, perhaps from having made the serious mistake of opposing the union movement of the Old and New School branches of the Presbyterian Church. The union movement proved a grand success, and of course bore down and swept out of sight for a time all its opponents.

The Conneautville Courier is responsible for the following: "A farmer in Crawford county, who had some bees to swarm, wanted to go to church, for it was Sunday. He was in a quandary. He didn't want to miss the bees, so he caught the queen bee and clipped her wings so she could not fly. Then he went to church. On his way home he met the entire swarm, some distance from home, going on foot, the queen in advance being unable to fly, but manifesting a disposition to "go it" anyhow."

—Somehow, albeit the business is a serious one, there is something ludicrous in a lame and impotent conclusion of an attempt to commit suicide. It is to be noticed that those whose attempts seem likely to be fatal, not unfrequently express regret at their prospective departure. And as for those who do not die their last state is clearly worse than their first. There was Mr. Daniels, who, the other day, stretched himself upon the railway track at Columbus, determined to be crushed out of an existence no longer tolerable. Instead of this, Mr. Daniels, after being duly run over, emerged from the collision with nothing worse than a sprained ankle. Poor man!

—The Newbern (N. C.) Republican must be conducted by a gentleman and a philanthropist, for it keeps at the head of its columns this notice: "The editor will send this paper free one year, post-paid, to any and all industrious and honest persons in this State who desire to read it, and are unable to pay the subscription price." We fear that this may prove rather an unwholesome experiment, for The Republican is printed weekly, and its price is only $1 50 per annum, or less than three cents a week. Now, an "honest and industrious" man who cannot afford to pay this, must have carried his personal virtues to a poor market.

—James Neely (Ripley, Fairfield county, Ohio) is no more. A most irritating and unsatisfactory old gentleman he was; for, though he is supposed to have left money to the amount of $15,000, he resolutely, on his death bed, refused to throw any light upon its hiding-place. The poor heirs have since been diligently digging up the farm, but no cash has yet requited their toil. The only thing remaining for them to do (providing they can get no information from a medium) is to dig up Mr. Neely and inflict some condign indignity upon his remains. No dying man has any moral right to soothe his last moments by such an expensive joke.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

OF VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.

By virtue of an order of the Orphans' Court of Beaver county, the undersigned trustee appointed by said court to sell the real estate of Eleanor Bell, late of Chippewa township, in said county, deceased, will expose to public sale on the premises, on SATURDAY, October 21st, 1871, at 11 o'clock, a. m., all the following real estate situate in the township of Chippewa, in the county of Beaver, and State of Pennsylvania; bounded and described as follows, viz:

Beginning at the south-east corner thereof, thence by land of James Alexander north 1¾ degrees east 67 perches to a stone; thence by land of John Wilson north 87½ degrees west 68 5-10 perches to a stone; thence south 91 3-10 perches to a white oak; thence by land of Wilson helrs north 88¼ degrees west 74 4-10 perches to a stone; thence by land of James Johnston, south 1¾ degrees west 67 perches to a stone; thence by land of William Niblock east along the Achortown road to a stone—the place of beginning; containing sixty acres, more or less. Improvements, a comfortable dwelling house, and suitable outbuildings.

It being part of same premises of which Joseph Niblock, dec'd, seized, leaving to survive him his wife Margaret Niblock, and two children, viz., William and Eleanor, the same Eleanor having acquired the interest of said William to the premises above described, (subject however to the dower of said widow,) by deed dated October 7th, 1867, and recorded in the office for recording deeds, &c., in the county of Beaver, in Deed Book Vol. 60, page 485, &c.

Terms: One-third of the purchase money upon the confirmation of the sale by the Court, one-third in one year thereafter, to be secured by mortgage; and the balance—one-third—to remain charged on the above described premises during the lifetime of the widow of Joseph Niblock, dec'd, to be secured by mortgage and the interest thereof to be paid semi-annually to the widow of said decedent, and at her death, the principal sum and one-third to be paid to those legally entitled thereto; the purchaser to pay for deed, mortgage, stamps, and recording mortgage.

Marriage and Death.—Why is it that the marriage announcements are followed by the obituary notices in our newspapers? Does death follow so closely on the heels of marriage? Is grief the page that carries the train of happiness? Does the tomb open with its dark and ponderous jaws beside the nuptial couch? This is the plan of life. The gleeful songs of light and merry hearts to-day, to-morrow will turn to funeral chaunts, and sobbing and lamentation be heard instead of glad, pealing laughter. We read to-day of our friend's marriage; wish them joy; to-morrow we see their death recorded, and say, "peace to their ashes." Our merriest songs are timed by the footfalls of death, and the "silver cord" is as fragile as a spider's thread, and the "golden bowl" is more brittle than glass.

Visit of the President.—President Grant and family arrived in this place by special train on the Chartiers road about five o'clock on Friday evening last. As our people hardly expected him to reach town before dark, no preparation was made for any formal reception, and accordingly on arriving at the depot his Excellency took a carriage, and in his usual quiet and undemonstrative way, passed through town to the residence of W. W. Smith, esq. During Saturday a number of our citizens called upon the President, and on Saturday evening a general reception took place, when the people of the town together with the Faculty and students of the College, the Principal, teachers and pupils of the Seminary, assembled and were presented to the distinguished guest and his estimable lady. On Sabbath he attended divine service at the Methodist Episcopal Church, and on Monday at ten o'clock took his departure for the west. As the train reached Cannonsburg on its way to Mansfield, a brief halt was made, when his Excellency was presented to the citizens, a large number who had assembled to greet him on his return. He reached Cincinnati on Monday night, where he proposes to stop off for the purpose of paying a flying visit to his old home in Brown county, Ohio, after which he will go to Galena, Ill., and from thence back to Washington, where he expects to arrive about the first of October.

While this visit of the Chief Magistrate to our town and county was not attended with any imposing demonstration, it must not be inferred that his reception by our people was any the less cordial. Knowing his aversion to display, their regard for his feelings caused them to welcome him in the manner most in accordance with his taste, and he took his departure from among us carrying with him the increased confidence and respect of all.—Washington Reporter, September 20th.

WE were rather pleasantly surprised the other day, while in Beaver Falls, to see the business portion of the community so actively engaged, among whom we noticed with pleasure the firm of D. Stewart & Son, dealers in Fancy Goods and Notions. They have everything arranged neatly and in a business-like way; and are by the looks of the large stock of new goods just received, fully prepared to supply the trade, either wholesale or retail.

WE are now prepared to furnish our numerous customers with everything in Millinery and Fancy Dry Goods, at as low prices as any store west of the mountains. Will Smith & Co. The Cheap Store, at Rochester, Pa. sep20-2w.

Personal.—Capt. George W. Hamilton of this place, took a tramp out west a couple of weeks ago, and returned last Thursday. On last Saturday a week ago, the express train from Pittsburgh to Erie, met with a serious accident at Sharpsville, Mercer county. It seems that a switch had been turned to let an engine in on the side track, and then forgotten, the engine, meanwhile, standing there. The express came thundering along, on time, and of course went on the side-track. The engineer, seeing that a collision was inevitable, applied the patent air brakes, and jumped. Both the engines were completely wrecked, and the baggage car badly damaged, but the passenger cars, owing to the forethought of the engineer in applying the air brakes, were comparatively uninjured. The engineer Jacob Orrison, of New Brighton, had his leg broken and was injured about the head, and is not yet considered out of danger; and one brakeman, baggage master and express messenger, all more or less hurt. But for the air brakes the casualties would doubtless have been much greater.

The Early Rose.—The first installment of Early Rose potatoes received this fall at the ARGUS office came from our attentive friend, Mr. William Hamilton of Ohio township. The Early Rose's here referred to were very fine, but we were sorry to hear from Mr. H., that the yield this season was not near so good as usual.

The Soldiers' Reunion, in Slippery rock township, Lawrence county, on last Thursday a week ago, was largely attended, and the services of a most interesting character. The editor of the Journal was present, and gives a history of what occurred. The exercises were opened with prayer, an appropriate song was sung by a Glee Club, after which Hon. Wm. McClelland delivered an address; another song, and then the roll of the honored dead was called. After this, several songs and addresses were listened to. An excellent repast was furnished of which most of those present partook. Altogether they had a good time. In speaking of the roll call, the Journal says: "We noticed many a tear wiped away by trembling hands, as the name of father, brother or husband was and we could not but reflect on the truth of the speaker's remark, that while, during the war we read in the newspapers the simple report that so many had been killed in action, we little knew how far, and deep, and wide spread were the wounds inflicted upon loving hearts at home."

Some years since, in a city not one hundred miles from Pittsburgh, a laborer who had just come over from Ireland was employed by a contractor on the railroad to work at a "dump."—Patrick put in an appearance in the morning, and on asserting that he could "dhrive a ca-art finely," had placed under his charge a dirt-cart and a mule. He was soon seen violently expostulating with the mule, and endeavoring to persuade it to take up a perpendicular position, or stand up on its hams with the cart laden with dirt. "Rear up, now, ye devil, ye bloody baste! rear up, now!" but the baste wouldn't rear. It seems that Pat did not understand the operation of tilting the cart, and was seeking an original way out of the difficulty in the way of dumping his load—something that the "spalpeen" of a mule did not understand.

Mr. John Read, an old gentleman from New Castle, Lawrence county, 80 years of age, was in town yesterday. He is a brother of the late Thomas Read, of Norristown. Mr. Read was a member Captain Robinson's company, of this borough during the war of 1812, and came to Norristown to see some of his old comrades. But two of these now survive—Captain Israel Jones and Philip Koplin.—Norristown Herald.

The change of Post-masters in Beaver Falls is exciting a good deal of ill-feeling in that town and in New Brighton. We have received a communication from one of these towns on the subject which contains some matter which we would rather not publish at the present time. The facts, however, as we glean them from the article, in question are substantially these: After Mr. Townsend ascertained that he had been deposed, himself and Rev. A. B. Bradford of Enon Valley went to Washington City, to learn why he had been removed, and what the charges were that had been preferred against him. On reaching the Post Office Department they were surprised to find that no charge of any kind had been filed against Mr. Townsend; but the Assistant Postmaster General informed them that Senator Cameron of this State had called there sometime before and requested him to make a change in the Beaver Falls Post Office, "if Mr. Quay of Beaver county desired it." Mr. Quay desired it, and accordingly Mr. Townsend was removed and Mr. Dawson was appointed in his stead.

As we understand the matter, the citizens of Beaver Falls and vicinity have no personal objections to Mr. Dawson. They regard him as a clever man; but they are determinedly opposed to "outside influences" in their local affairs. They claim to be "popular sovereigns," and capable of managing their own business, "independent of Senator Cameron, of Harrisburg and Mr. Quay of Beaver."

The Evans embezzlement still furnishes the enemies of Governor Geary with ammunition for their guns which are all turned upon the Governor rather than upon the embezzler. Now, it cannot be shown that the Governor betrayed the trust reposed in him by the appointment of Evans. The Assembly which passed the act for the appointment, requiring no security of the appointee, and the members of it who recommended Evans were first in fault. The editor of the Beaver Radical, and the Assessor of this district, (not the Collector as the types made us say last week), were members of that Assembly and know what part they took in this business. They, at least, should let the Governor's reputation stand till their own is established in this connection.

We owe an apology to Mr. Merrick, the Collector of this district, for even unintentionally alluding to him as connected with the passage of such a law. That apology is hereby tendered.—Lawrence Journal.

Items from the Press.—The death of Rev. James Henderson, prédecessor of Rev. J. S. Dean, as pastor of the M. E. Church, New Brighton, at Zanesville, Ohio, on Thursday evening last, is noticed. He was on his way to take charge of a congregation at Brownsville, when taken suddenly ill between the steamboat and the hotel at Zanesville, he died soon after arriving at the latter; it was thought from the bursting of an inward tumor. He had endeared himself to the New Brighton community.

—The New-Brighton, Fallston, and Beaver Falls business community have petitioned Adams' Express Company to furnish an express wagon to deliver goods and packages. The amount of busines transacted with that company by the citizens of that vicinity would seem to warrant the attention on the part of those common carriers.

The Reynolds Rifles went into camp in Daugherty's woods near Geo. Irwin's residence on Wednesday evening last, and will remain a week. Some of the boys complain, however, of some of the discomforts.

—The large and elegant common school building of Beaver Falls, is rapidly approching completion. It will be a credit to the place.

—On Monday night of last week, an attempt was made by three burglars to force an entrance into the grocery goods store of Schiff, on Broadway, New Brighton. Mr. Schiff was absent. The attempt was made upon the rear door of the store at three different times, but by the barking of dogs kept in the room, and by the firing of a revolver from one of the upper windows, at which Mr. Steinfelt—brother-in-law of the proprietor—had posted himself, they were forced to give up their purpose and beat a retreat. A couple of suspicious persons had been lurking in the neighborhood for some time back.

McGee Pardoned.—The Governor has pardoned McGee, who was sentenced to the Allegheny Workhouse for receiving bribes as a License Commissioner. It has been generally known for some time that the health of Mr. McGee has been very poor, especially since his incarceration in the Work House. His friends have been seriously concerned about him, and in order to arrive at a thorough knowledge of the extent of his disease, secured the professional services of Drs. Dickson, King, and other physicians of the highest standing, who have certified in writing, that in their opinion the prisoner could not survive a confinement to continue during the entire length of his sentence. Meantime the facts of his illness becoming generally known, petitions were circulated addressed to the Governor, praying for his release; these papers with the physicians' certificates, were finally taken to Harrisburg and presented to his Excellency week before last. No remonstrance having been offered, they met with a favorable reception, and Mr. McGee's sentence, at least that part of it which relates to imprisonment was at once commuted. He was released from the place of his confinement arrived at his home in Allegheny where he is now lying quite ill.

Heavy Seizure of Whisky.—Tuesday of last week one of the most extensive seizures of whisky ever made in Western Pennsylvania was effected in the southeastern part of this county and an adjoining part of Fayette county. For some time past it has been alleged (with what degree of truthfulness we cannot say) that Samuel Thompson, an extensive distiller, well known in this and adjacent counties, had been violating the internal revenue laws; and finally information was made against him for doing business as a wholesale dealer in the Twenty-second (Pittsburgh) district without paying the special tax, for not making proper entries in his books, and for compounding liquors. It is stated that the revenue officers hesitated about making the seizure, fearing that they would be visited with a heavy penalty in case of a failure to make out a case. Finally, it is said, U. S. District Attorney Swoope gave an opinion to the effect that the seizure could be made, which opinion was approved by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington City. Accordingly, on the day mentioned, Deputy Collector Julius Miller, of this place, seized thirteen hundred and fifty barrels of whisky at West Brownsville, and also Mr. Thompson's interest (one-half) in two hundred and eighty-nine barrels at Millsboro. At the same time Deputy Collector Lewis, of Fayette, seized two hundred and eighty-nine barrels at Brownsville. This made the entire number of barrels seized eighteen hundred and twenty-eight, the value of which is variously estimated, the lowest computation being sixty thousand dollars.—Washington Review and Examiner.

Indignation Meeting at Beaver Falls.—On Monday evening last a meeting of the citizens of Beaver Falls was held at the old Brick School House, pursuant to a call by hand bill signed "Many Citizens," the object as therein stated was "to protest against the dishonorable means used to effect the removal of M. A. Townsend from the Post Office of this place." The school house was filled at the opening of the meeting which occurred at about eight o'clock, and was called to order by Mr. George Stewart. After considerable trouble in getting the right men into the right places as officers, for as Mr. Stewart remarked "it was as hard to organize the meeting as for an honest man to hold an office in Beaver Falls," which brought down the house decidedly. The following gentlemen were elected and took their seats upon the rostrum:

President—Henry Myers.

Vice Presidents—John R. Hoopes, Jas. W. Mitchell, esq., Robert Taylor, H. G. Hoefner, John Slentz.

Secretaries—W. F. Modes, Wm. Fessenden.

The President read the call and stated the object of the meeting, declaring that the removal of Mr. Townsend was improper and contrary to the wishes of the citizens of Beaver Falls.

On motion of Mr. Stewart, the following named gentlemen were elected to draft and report resolutions expressive of the sense of meeting: Jas. M. Fessenden, Jos. Graff, Jas. Houston, Francis Banks, J. E. Crane.

During the labors of the Committee Mr. Stewart addressed the meeting at considerable length, denouncing the action of those who had succeeded in Mr. Townsend's removal in strong terms. He was especially severe on the "Cameron-Quay ring," whom he accused of political corruption and a total disregard of principle and fair-dealing—charging upon them the exercise of misrepresentation and chicanery in bringing about the removal against which the meeting had been called to protest.

Upon the conclusion of Mr. Stewart's remarks the Committee submitted the following report, which was adopted with but few dissenting voices:

WHEREAS, There are times and occasions which call for a public expression of the people against wrongs that may be committed upon private individuals or public officers, and

WHEREAS, Milo A. Townsend has been removed from the Post office at Beaver Falls, by means that are not justifiable and are contrary to the decided wishes of the leading business men and worthy citizens of the place as expressed in petitions forwarded to the Post Office Department to counteract a similar petition (in the early part of last spring) said petition bearing the signatures of about two hundred of our citizens, and

WHEREAS, The influence then brought to bear by these petitions and other instrumentalities, acting through Senators Scott and Cameron, and others, upon the Department, it decided that Mr. Townsend be reinstated as Post Master at this place, we therefore Resolve, To enter our unqualified protest against this removal, and the manner by which it has been effected, and whereby our wishes have been disregarded a man appointed Post Master whom we cannot welcome to that office.

Resolved, That it is not so much because it is our only fellow-citizen, Milo A. Townsend, who has been so unmanfully dealt with in this matter, that calls out our righteous indignation, as it is the principle involved, whereby all principles of honor, justice and fair dealing between man and man are violated and set at naught, and whereby there could be no protection or government worthy the name of a Republic; therefore,

Resolved, That a removal from any office effected by such means deserves and will receive the condemnation of all right-thinking men, whether belonging to the Republican, Democratic, or any other party.

Resolved, That the people being the rightful sovereigns in a Republic, are by right the Government. Therefore,

Resolved, That their wishes and interests should have a pre-eminence over the wishes and interests of politicians and outside usurpers.

Resolved, That we have reason to believe that the Post Master General has been misled in his action in this matter, and we respectfully ask him that Milo A. Townsend be reinstated in the Post Office at Beaver Falls.

Resolved, That we deprecate such a proceeding, and respectfully ask that Milo A. Townsend be permitted to continue in office until the close of the present Administration.

Resolved, That the names of the gentlemen and individuals enrolled in the petition to the Department in favor of Milo A. Townsend being retained as Post Master of the above Falls represented two-thirds of the voters of this place, and hence we urge that this expression of the people be recognized and determine the Post Master General in his action in the case.

On motion, the meeting adjourned.

Political Poetry.—The Louisville Courier-Journal feels bad about California, but lays the blame all upon Brick Pomeroy. Its "small talk" man grows poetic after this manner:

"Bad news from the Pacific!
California's Tected Booth!
Would you like to know the reason?
Listen to the naked truth:

"Brick Pomeroy appeared there—
He's an enterprising youth—
He lectured to Booth—
That's what elected Booth.

"Bold Brick is now departing,
And where'er his voice is heard
The Democratic ballots
Are reduced at least a third."

Per Contra, the Savannah Republican thinks that "accepting the amendments" is what's the matter with the California Democracy.

Eggs or Oranges.

MR. EDITOR:—There is in the last ARGUS what claims to be a solution of the problem published a short time since in your paper, in regard to some oranges. But, Wyandotte, or his famous mathematician—Esq. Clow—has missed the question entirely; though it is admitted the principle involved is the same in both; but the numbers are different, and therefore the answers would not be the same. It is no matter whether you call them eggs or oranges, but the numbers are important. His numbers are 20, 30 and 50. But the question proposed was as follows: "Three women having several 10, 30 and 50 oranges, sold them at the same rates, and each received the same amount for her oranges; at what rates did they sell them, and how much did each receive?" Now, it will not do to say his answer to this problem is correct, but it will nearly approximate.

But I submit, that his professed solution is not a mathematical solution at all, even to the question he considers, but only a happy guess. A mathematical solution not only gives the result, or answer, but must give also the principle involved, and the process by which the result is obtained. But he gives no clue to his manner of solving it, or how he arrived at his result.

Now let Wyandotte, or his astute farmer, apply himself to the question proposed, as quoted above, and let him give the result, and develop the principle involved so that it may be applied to any similar problem, and I will take off our hat and say, thank you, sir.

Beaver County Ministerial Association convened on the 14th inst. pursuant to adjournment in the lecture room of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Beaver. The session was opened with prayer by Rev. J. B. Breckenridge. Rev. D. H. McLean, D. D., the president, being absent Rev. C. C. Riggs, D. D., was chosen President pro tem. The question for discussion was—"The import of the words Sheol, Tartarco Geenna and Hades in the Hebrew Scriptures, the Septuagint and the Latin Vulgate." After considerable discussion of the subject it was resolved to continue the discussion of this question at the next regular meeting, the Rev. James M. Shields to open the discussion with an essay. Miscellaneous business being disposed of, the committee to revise the constitution reported progress and were instructed to present the revised constitution for adoption at the next regular meeting. A full attendance is desired at the next regular meeting as matters of vital interest to every member of the association will be presented. On motion of Rev. Wm. H. Locke, the Presbyterian church in Bridgewater was chosen as the place and October 5th, at 2 p. m., the time for the next regular meeting of the association.

The Fair.—Farmers, Mechanics, Tradesmen and Laborers—one and all—turn out to the Agricultural Fair to-morrow (Wednesday). Bring your wives and children. Come with your horses, cattle, stock, fowls, grains, flowers, machinery and manufactured articles. This is the way to make a Fair interesting and useful. We think this will undoubtedly be the largest and grandest exhibition of the kind ever witnessed in Beaver county, and those who refrain from attending will miss an opportunity to witness rational enjoyment, seldom presented. Come and get acquainted with one another—interchange views on agricultural subjects—see the improvements in Agricultural and Mechanical implements—compare the relative merits of your various kinds of stock, grains and vegetables, and you will find yourselves entertained and profited. The premiums offered amount to about $5,000, and cover almost everything usually exhibited at a county Fair. If our Farmers, Mechanics, Manufacturers, &c., do their duty, the Fair will, no doubt, be a grand success, and a credit to the county.

On Saturday (Wednesday) the mile heat trotting match—best three in five, go as they please, comes off. There must be four or more entries to make a race—three to start. This race is confined to horses in the county. First premium, $15; second premium, $7; third premium, $3. Ten per cent entrance fee.

A Straw will make an impression on the virgin snow; let it remain there but a short time, and a horse's hoof can scarcely penetrate it. So it is with the youthful mind. A trifling word may make an impression on it; but after a few years the most powerful appeals cease to influence. Think of this, ye who have the training of the infant mind, and leave such impression thereon as will be safe for it to carry amid the follies and temptations of the world.

SHIP ON FIRE.

Five Hundred Passengers in Sight of Land Expecting a Watery Grave—The Steamship Columbia, of the Anchor Line, with a Smouldering Fire in Her Hold.

On the 29th of August the steamship Columbia, of the Anchor Line, left Glasgow. She had on board five hundred passengers—ninety cabin, and four hundred and ten in the steerage. The passage was rough and stormy, but nothing untoward happened. On Thursday morning, she came within sight of New York harbor, and the cry of "Land, oh!" aroused the

from their berths with exultant joy depicted on every countenance. Those who had for nearly two weeks been huddled below in the bunks set apart for the steerage came rushing forth ere day broke upon the waters. The vessel sailed on its way safely and smoothly. For an hour and a half the ship was one scene of hearty thanksgiving. About seven o'clock, as with hungry stomachs and glad hearts all hands were awaiting the call for breakfast, a cry of fire was raised. The scene of joy and pleasantness was changed to one of

TERROR AND DISMAY.

Hither and thither through the ship ran husbands, fathers and brothers calling for their families and gathering their own around them. Mothers who had left their younger children snugly ensconced in their berths rushed frantically below, and, bearing their offspring to the upper deck, stood white with fear along the sides of the vessel, awaiting they knew not what. In the meantime the whole fore part of the vessel was dense with thick black smoke. It surged up through the hold in volumes. Cabins, staterooms, berths—every place where human beings stood or lay—were filled with this mass of suffocating vapor. Some attempted to cry for boats, but the smoke

CHOKED THEIR UTTERANCE.

The women fell on their knees and looked only to Heaven for succor.—During this season of terror and excitement Chief Officer Higgins, having discovered the source and issue of the fire, got the steam and hand pumps to work. He was nobly seconded in his efforts by the whole crew of the vessel. For two hours they

and poured a deluge of water upon the burning mass. The old Fire Department of New York in its palmiest days never worked harder to conquer the destroying element than did these men of the steamship Columbia, on this eventful morning. After prolonged and untiring effort, in which six men fell fainting from the effects of the smoke and exhaustion, the fire was subdued. The smoke still continued to surge up, but the breeze of the ocean cleared it away, and the Columbia was

SAILED GAILY INTO HARBOR.

The origin of the fire was then looked into. Immediately under the cook's galley were stored bales of jute and burlaps. The jute was pressed against the top of the compartment, and directly beneath the range. In the back part of the range the fire was strong, and the plate became heated to an intense degree; this intense heat communicated to the woodwork below, and thence to the jute, which being so tightly pressed, was eminently combustible. There the fire must have before it was discovered, being an air and water tight compartment, the only aperture a small ventilator. [illegible] parts of the vessel and the ship been in flames ere its officers were aware of the fact. The Columbia arrived at her dock, pier 20 North River, Thursday about four p. m., all hands thanking Providence to put their foot on terra firma once more. Where the fire occurred the woodwork was burned through three-quarters of an inch, and the wall or cement partition back of it was even then too hot to PUT THE HAND NEAR IT.

A number of men were at work putting asbest-iron division in place of the woodwork to prevent future accidents of that kind. Why this was not done before it is not said.—Captain Small, in an interview with the reporter, distinctly denied any fright on the part of the passengers, but as far as the reporter went he could not find any of them to corroborate his statement.

"About where were you, Captain, when the accident occurred?" said the reporter.

"We were off Fire Island, sir. It was only a trifling affair—a matter of half an hour or so, and it was all over."

"Who discovered the fire first, Captain?"

"Did you order the life boats to be got ready?"

"No, sir; there was no necessity. As I said before, it was all over in about half an hour. Anyhow, we were within ten miles of shore and could have beached her if we liked."

One of the crew, who was talked to, did not seem to have felt quite so sanguine about the fate of the ship. the he course of a conversation as to

"It was right fire, he remarked: range, and I don't think it's blasted any way. The smoke came up, sir, so thick that you could cut it with a knife, and so sudden like that the most of us suffocated before we knew anything about it."

"Was there much alarm on board the vessel?" inquired the reporter.

"Do you mean were the folks frightened? My God, sir, I never saw anything like it. It was well for us, and well for the ship that we were not out at sea."

Considering the time and space in which the fire occurred, the pecuniary amount of damage is small—according to the officers' statements some one thousand dollars in all. The principal destruction was by water; what was damaged by fire was ute, burlaps and soda-crackers, in proportion to the bulk the least valuable portion of the cargo that was at all combustible. The Columbia is to sail to-day for Glasgow.

Value of an Explanation.

A certain king, it is said, sent to another king, saying: "Send me a blue pig with a black tail, or else—." The other, at high dudgeon at the presumed insult, replied, "I have not got one and if I had—." On this weighty cause they went to war for many years. After a satiety of glories and miseries, they finally bethought them that as their armies and resources were exhausted and their kingdoms mutually laid waste it might be well enough to consult about the preliminaries of peace; but before this could be concluded, a diplomatic explanation was first needed of the insulting language which formed the ground of the quarrel. "What could you mean," said the second king to the first, "by saying, 'Send me a blue pig with a black tail, or else—?'"

"Why," said the other, "I meant a blue pig with a black tail, or else some other color. But, retorted he, "what did you mean by saying, 'I have not got one, and if I had—?'"

"Why, of course, if I had I should have sent it." An explanation which was entirely satisfactory, and peace was concluded accordingly.

—Fanny Fern says: "People have no business to work in warm weather; they ought to go to sleep at the beginning of the dog-days, as bears do in winter and suck their paws peacefully till the temperature becomes endurable again." Now, if we had only known this three months ago!

TERRIBLE TEMPTATION.

How Minister DeLong was Offered a Beautiful Japanese Girl and Wouldn't Take Her.

[Yokoma Cor. of Virginia (Nev.) Enterprise.]

I do not know how I can better illustrate the inside of select society here than to relate the occurrences of a dinner party given by the head commercial agent of one of the most prominent princes to a prominent foreign plenipotentiary and some invited guests. Proceeding to the commercial building, we there met our host and a retinue of retainers, ready for fun, frolic or fighting, as the humor of their lord might determine. At the quay lay a magnificent barge, engaged for the use of our party, and, seating ourselves oriental fashion, in a short time were propelled four miles up the river to a magnificent tea-house, where a numerous assemblage awaited our coming. Upon alighting, we were greeted with cordial welcome and especial politeness, and at once were escorted to the reception and entertaining room, where we found actors, jugglers, musicians, and at least fifty dark-eyed singing girls, instructed to minister to the wants or amusement of the guests. After a brief prelude from their orchestra the troupe of jugglers appeared before us and performed countless feats of legerdemain with a dexterity surprising to us all. The most peculiar and artistic feat was called the "Magic Butterfly;" and as I had seen the trick attempted by Japanese and Chinese at home, the surpassing neatness and skill of the grave and serious-looking performer provoked my warmest admiration. Indeed, the science of this fellow as far exceeded the weak attempts I had before witnessed, as the wondrous dramatic representations of Hon. Bob Lowery or George Cain, esq., did the stale eloquence of Forest, Booth, or McKean Buchanan.

The artist took pieces of silk gauze and made them into imitation butterflies. On a low table he arranged some boquets of flowers, and his preparations were complete. Stepping back a few paces, he unfolded a fan, and instantly the air filled with the automaton insects. Slowly waved the air endowed wand, and while some of the butterflies circled around and above his head, others sought the carnation buds of the boquets, lingered lovingly on each bright blossom an instant, grouped on a large rose, fluttering as in flight, and at last, at a gentle motion of the master, flew to his side and were slowly gathered together. It was simply astonishing, and our hearty applause obtained a repetition for the artist's skill. Meanwhile the feast had begun, and as the wine circulated the actors displayed their merits, young girls touched the national guitar with tender melody, national war songs were chanted, fire-works of exceeding beauty gleamed in the entwining foliage, at least two scores of lovely young girls swayed hither and thither in the voluptuous dance of their clan, and in brief, we were entertained in a style far exceeding that of any previous feast which it had been my good fortune to attend. As the sparkling wine relaxed the sociability of our keen-eyed host, he asked the interpreter to inquire of the Minister which of the girls he deemed the loveliest. The question was a delicate one and the diplomat hesitated; but on being pressed he pointed out a tall, lithe, graceful girl, whose eyes, shaded by drooping lashes, disclosed occasionally flashes of lightning fervor, and whose carnation lips, faultless features and ill-concealed bust would have thrilled an iceberg.

"She is yours!" cried the Yakonin. "Advance to your master!" Instantly, with a face dyed with crimson, she advanced to the seat of the Minister, prostrated her beautiful face to [illegible] were all filled with astonishment, as this episode unfolded a curious and novel phase of Japanese life. Upon being questioned, the host said it was usual to make such gifts to honored friends; that the next day he should visit the parents of the girl, pay them two or three hundred rios (a rio is one dollar and six cents, gold) secure her future clothing and food, and all was well. So that, whether the girl be taken as a concubine or as a servant, it was all that was required.

DeLong, of course, declined the beautiful gift, with many expressions of thanks; but I saw his eye glisten, and I knew he was human—yet anybody would be human—and I knew that the refusal to accept the thrilling tribute was on a par with my own youthful discipline, when my sainted mother used to caution me never to accept the second piece of mince pie when dining out. If I had been an ignorant orphan, I should doubtless have got too much pie.

The Wigan Disaster.

A London paper gives the following account of the colliery explosion near Wigan on the 6th inst.: At eleven o'clock this morning the men in the nine-feet and channel were at work, and two sinkers were descending the upcast shaft to join their fellows below, when from the downcast came a blast like the discharge from a cannon, followed by a terrible discharge of soot and smoke from the upcast, which lasted several minutes, and which was scattered by the light breeze over the adjacent fields. At the first-named the cage, then standing on a raised platform, was whirled out of its position, and the bowman had an escape which greatly such a [illegible] him, while at the second that it was wonderful [illegible] of the gear ever came alive from the chains, man did sustain severe bruises, and was taken home in a cart.

When the first exploring party descended the downcast, they found three men alive at the furnace, which is placed in the upper seam, known as the four-feet. They then descended to the nine-feet, where there were a number of dead bodies, and several colliers alive, calling for water. These were sent to the surface and attended to, and the explorers continued their work; but shortly afterwards the engineers on the pit bank were startled by a second and third explosion of fire damp. At the greatest possible speed, consistent with safety, the cage traveled from the bottom to the surface, for the winding apparatus happily had not been damaged and at the third journey all the explorers were safe above ground, although several had a very narrow escape. A consultation was held and it was decided to brick up the shaft, as there could be no doubt that all below were dead, and that there was the greatest danger in any further examination of the mine. The dead number sixty-nine, of whom sixty-two are colliers, day laborers and drawers in the nine-feet seam; six are sinkers in the upcast shaft, buried beneath the debris, and one is a collier brought out alive, who died an hour or two afterward.

Wonders of Nature.

A member of the Yellowstone exploring expedition writes as follows in a private letter printed by the Cleveland Herald: "Up in the heart of the continent, eight thousand five hundred feet above the sea, lies one of the loveliest bodies of pure cold water that can be found in the world. Hemmed in on every side by lava peaks and long rolling benches densely covered with fine timber, it stretches out its fair bosom twenty-five miles to view north and south, and varies in length from five to fifteen miles. It is really, I presume, one of the most perfect pieces of water composition that the earth affords. Below this lake, on the river, are two falls, one over one hundred feet in height and the other some one hundred and eighty—a sheer faultless fall in the first case, unbroken to its bottom. The canon below it, over one thousand feet in depth, will always be a wonder to those who may have had the good fortune to follow in my steps. The descent into this canon was made by myself after it had been pronounced impossible."

A Notable Wedding in Newport.

[From the Boston Transcript.]

Jerome Napoleon Bonapart and Mrs. Caroline Le Roy Edgar, of Boston, were married in St. Mary's (Catholic) Church, Newport, R. I.

The wedding was a quiet one, and the bride was attired in traveling dress. No reception was held here, and the parties left for Boston by the noon train. The ceremony, which was nearly an hour in length, was performed by Rev. Father Grace, of Newport, assisted by the Rev. Father Hughes, of St. Patrick's Church, Providence and the Rev. Father Finnigan. Mr. Malstre played the grand organ of the St. Mary's in his best style. After the ceremony the friends of the parties informally congratulated the brideat the altar. The church was filled with spectators, though the wedding party was small. The guests were attired in morning toilets, without any attempt whatever at display.

Mr. Bonapart is the grandson of Mme. Patterson-Bonapart and grandnephew of Napoleon I. He was born in this country in 1832, graduated at West Point and entered the French army, where he has won for himself much honor. At the seige of Sebastopol he received a decoration from the Sultan for gallant and meritorious conduct. His appearance is handsome and martial, and his physique very fine. His face was something of a Napoleonic cast, and he is said to possess fine abilities, amiable manners, and a disposition which gains him friends always. He is now forty years of age, and his destiny at present is a mere matter of speculation. By the laws of the Catholic Church he is, in case of the death of the Prince Imperial, heir to the throne of France, should the family again come into power. The Church never declared the marriage of Jerome Bonapart to Miss Patterson null and void, and Mme. Patterson-Bonaparte has always professed that her grandson would eventually occupy the throne. But, as I said before, this is mere speculation.

Mrs. Edgar, who was Miss Appleton, of Boston, a granddaughter of Daniel Webster, is well known in Boston society. She is a lovely type of the American woman, a pretty, pleasing brunette, with a refined face and dignified carriage. She has been a widow several years, and has owned and occupied a handsome summer residence here a number of seasons. She was attired in an ashes-of-rose traveling dress of some soft material, which draped very gracefully, and a white straw bonnet, trimmed with black lace and feathers of a tea-rose shade. She was brought forward to the altar by her uncle, Mr. Appleton, of Boston, and Miss Julia Armsted, who accompanied her as witness. The parties kept their seats in different parts of the church during most of the service, and after reaching the chancel they remained kneeling through all the ceremony.

This is the first instance of a Protestant being married in a Catholic Church. Even King Charles was not allowed that privilege when he took a bride of another faith, and a special dispensation was procurred on this occasion. Mrs. Bonaparte clings to her old belief, and this favor is considered a very great one in the Roman Church.

Among the guests present were Mme. Bonaparte and Charles Joseph Bonaparte, of Baltimore, mother and younger brother of the groom, the latter acting as witness at the altar. Mrs. P. R. Hoffman and Miss E. Morton, of New York, T. G. Appleton and E. W. Codman of Boston, Judge Blatchford and family, and o'clock yesterday morning. No cards were issued, and it was an unostentatious, quiet affair, though really one of the most talked-of events of the season.

Fashionable Life.

The Boston Commercial Bulletin prints this programme of a night's "rest" at a fashionable watering place, furnished by an elderly party occupying apartment on large corridor over hotel drawing-room. Size of apartment, ten feet square. Number of rooms on corridor, thirty or forty. Ventilators open for air and the admission of sound:

9 p. m.—Commencement of music by full band for Grand Hop in drawing-room below.
10 to 12.—Continuation of ditto.
1 to 1½ a. m.—Just one more last dance.
1½ to 2½.—Adjournment of retiring dancers to corridor; extemporaneous waltzes—screams—gigglings—leave-takings and door-slammings.
2½ to 3.—Serenade by young gentlemen who do not understand the difference between a howl and a song, and are more familiar with a hotel bar than one in music.
3 to 3½.—Collection of boots by porter.
4.—Calling of a party who are going on a fishing excursion.
4½.—Calling passengers for early train.
5.—Audible dropping of boots at all the doors by porter.
5½.—Departure of stage load of passengers for early train—cracking of whips—shouts to horses—banging of trunks down stairs, &c.
6 to 6½.—General stir of servants coming down and getting things to rights for the day.
7.—First gong for breakfast.

An Old Bible.

The Concord N. H. Daily Patriot says: Mrs. Eames of this city has a Bible printed in 1608, in the old black letter. The Bible was on the title-page: the Ebrew and Greeke, according to with the best Translations in divers Languages, with most profitable Annotations upon all the hard places, and other things of great importance as may appear in the Epistle to the Render. And also a most profitable Concordance for the ready finding out of any thing in the same contained.—Imprinted at London, by Robert Barker, Printer to the Kings most excellent Majestie, 1608."

This edition is sometimes called the "Breeches Version," because in the seventh verse of the third chapter of Genesis, it is written "they sowed figge tree leaves together and made themselves breeches," instead of "aprons," as is in the modern translation. Bound up with the Bible is "The Booke of Common Prayer," and "The whole Booke of Psalmes collected into English meeter by Thomas Sternhold, John Hopkins and others, with apt Notes to sing them withall. This part of it is "printed for the Companie of Stacioners, 1608."

This Bible was bought by Mrs. Eames in Exeter, England, September 2, 1867.

—Once more we hear of that fine old veteran, the Rev. Cartwright, Methodist minister for 66 years and a presiding elder for over 50 years. This gentleman celebrated his 87th birthday on the 1st inst., at Pleasant Plains, Sangamon county, Ill. Just think of the patriarch, surrounded upon this touching occasion by 120 children, grandchildren, and great grand children—population enough for a small township. There was a pleasant reunion, and the octogenarian was not too old to make an interesting speech.

—Mr. Beecher thinks it high time girls were taught a little practical natural history, and so shamed out of screaming and half fainting at the sight of a worm, toad, or snake.

—Horace Greeley inspected a new corn-sheller in Indiana one day last week. It was a hog of the land-pike species, with a snout two feet long, and a body so far past fattening that it was impossible to tell where it left off and the emaciated tail commenced.

The Crust of the Earth.

It has long been believed that the earth is composed of a molton mass enveloped in a solid crust, but the thickness of the crust has remained a subject of vague conjecture. Professor Thompson, however, now shows to the British Association that no thickness less than 2,000 or 2,500 miles would enable the crust to resist the tide gathering force of the sun and moon. A thinner crust, he says, would be bulged up by a tide within the molton mass like the tide of the ocean. Experiments bearing upon this interesting point have lately been made during the operation of sinking a shaft at Wigan, and in which it was found that the temperature of the strata, which at the depth of 161 yards was 61½ degrees, rose to 93½° at 808 yards. The rise, or increase of temperature, exhibited in this case was about 1° Fahrenheit for every 54.57 feet of descent into the earth.

—"Where do you hail from?" queried a Yankee of a traveler. "Where do you rain from?" "Don't rain at all," said the astonished Jonathan. "Neither do I hail, so mind your own business."

—A young lady, recently married to a farmer, one day visited the cow houses, when she thus interrogated her milk maid. "By-the-by, Mary, which one of these cows is it that gives the butter-milk?"

—A Japanese curiosity in the shape of a deer two years old, seven inches high, and the total length nine inches, alive and in perfect health, can be seen in a bird store window in Bowden Square, Boston.

—"You say," said a Judge to a witness, "that the plaintiff resorted to an ingenious use of circumstantial evidence; state just exactly what you mean by that." "Well," said the witness, "my exact meaning is that he lied."

—Secretary Seward once said:—"The cleanest man is the most comely to look upon; so bathe well, eat well, and love well, and, somehow or other, the homeliest will be beautiful."

—Man was never intended to be idle. Inactivity frustrates the very design of his creation; whereas an active life is the best guardian of virtue, and greatest preservative of health.

—A minister once gave a commentary to an old Scotch lady who was well versed in the Scriptures. He thought she would enjoy the explanation of her favorite passages. Calling on her a few days afterward, he said: "Did you like the book I gave you?" "Ah, mon, it's a good book, and the Bible explains it amazingly!"

A man long supposed to be dead turned up in St. Paul the other day when he was not wanted. Several years ago he married and deserted his wife, who, after a lapse of time, married again, believing him to be dead. Her second husband died, and just as she was about to administer the estate he returns. She gets none of the property, and naturally is very much disgusted.
